

On-line Table: Treatment details

Case No.	EtOH (%)	EtOH Volume (mL)	Rationale for EtOH	Adjunct Therapies for Complete Aneurysm Occlusion	Definitive AVM Treatment (Angiographic Cure Unless Indicated)	Follow-Up
1	70	6	Microcatheter tip at origin of L PICH/distal access not possible	2-mm Fibered coil in L PICH	n-BCA embolization of MCA supply, surgical resection, then radiosurgery	60-mo; Clinical and DSA
2	70	4	Microcatheter tip at origin of R splenial/distal access not possible	None	EtOH sclerotherapy	7-mo Clinical
3	60	3	Long distance between microcatheter tip and INA	None	Surgical resection during same admission	6-mo DSA
4	70	5	Microcatheter tip at origin of R PICH/distal access not possible	None	Radiosurgery (treatment ongoing)	14-mo Clinical DSA POD 1
5	60, 70, 80	20, 1, 1	Long distance between microcatheter tip and FAA	None	EtOH sclerotherapy	DSA: 2 mo (no angiographic recurrence of FAA) Clinical: 5 mo
6	70	2	Small L PO branch with slow flow to AVM	None	Surgical resection	2-mo DSA 3-mo Clinical
7	70	3.5	Microcatheter at origin of L PICH/distal access not possible	None	Radiosurgery (residual AVM)	8-mo DSA, 33-mo Clinical
8	60, 80	5, 5	Microcatheter at origin of L PmCh	n-BCA	EtOH sclerotherapy and n-BCA embolization	5-mo Clinical and DSA
9	70	1.5	Long distance between microcatheter tip and FAA, risk of reflux	2 GDC UltraSoft ^a 2 mm × 1 cm coils in distal ACh	Referred to radiosurgery; however, lost to follow-up	7-mo Clinical; died from complications of pre-existing end-stage renal disease NA
10	70	3	Long distance between microcatheter tip and INA	n-BCA, 2 GDC UltraSoft ^a 2 mm × 1 cm coils in distal R pericallosal artery	EtOH pericallosal artery supply, n-BCA of PCA supply, surgical resection	4-mo Clinical DSA POD 1

Note.—POD indicates postoperative day; NA, not applicable; PCA, posterior cerebral artery; PICH, posterolateral choroidal artery; PO, parieto-occipital artery; PmCh, posteromedial choroidal artery; L, left; R, right; ACh, anterior choroidal artery.
^a Guglielmi detachable coil (Stryker, Kalamazoo, Michigan).